The Wilmington Star, in its issue of the 6th, chronicles the fact that its power-press had become deranged.
We seriously hope that the editorial staff will not take the malady.

We will venture the assertion, and that too without the fear of successful contradiction, that Raleigh has more sharpers in it than any other place in the South of its size and population.

The city promises to pay its laborers $1 per day, and yet these poor men are subjected to a shade of 20 cents in the dollar on their paper.

We understand that, in accordance with the recently enacted law allowing it, a petition will be laid before the Board of County Commissioners, asking that an election be held on the first Monday in May on the question of prohibition or no prohibition of the sale of liquor in this township.

The question of reform in both our County and City government is now being actively discussed by citizens without regard to party affiliations or color. If something is not done in the next election on the side of economy and prudence, we shall be ready to the best interests of a people who love and appreciate a man as North Carolinians do him.

Should Mr. Battle be chosen, he will be in a sphere in which he will move with great satisfaction to all concerned. The right place will have the right man.

E. L. Smith was arrested, charged with violation of Revenue Law 1872-73.

The evidence proved that Mr.
Smith had no State license, but that the articles offered for sale by him by sample were manufactured in Guilford county. Judgment of the Court
"Not guilty." F. H. Busbee appeared for the defendant.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE 10TH JU-DICIAL DISTRICT.—The following members of the lecture which our fellow-citizen, Major Seaton Gales, delivered in Salem on Friday night of last week:

"Major Gales' lecture on Friday evening last was highly interesting, and delivered before as large and attentive an audience as we ever recollected seeing assembled on similar occasions. The reputation of the speaker was fully sustained, and the comparative review of the achievements of the ancients, with those of our glorious nineteenth century were charmingly and effectively given, embellished as it were, a series of pictures linked together in golden sentences, rich in the manly eloquence of ripe scholarship, as well as elegance in delivery."

"There was but one regret expressed, and that was its brevity. The speaker could easily have held the attention of the audience for another hour."

THE OLD-EST YEAR.—We stated yesterday morning that Treasurer Jenkins had in his possession a bible printed in 1790. Mr. G. Rosenthal, the gentlemanly manager of the Neuse Mills Manufacturing Company, has one in a good state of preservation, printed in Baise, Switzerland, in 1695. This beats by 125 years.
Let the next bible be trotted out.

RAPID PROGRESS.—S. J. Falls, G.
W. S., of the Order of Good Tempdispatch yesterday from Greenville, now numbers 85.

In relation to the proposed Immigra-

17th instant the Mayor has received a letter from the Society (New York City) Publishing Company. His Hon. kindly furnishes the following extract from the letter, which is attracting attention at the North:

"We have noticed with pleasure your communication on the subject of Immigration, and believe the adoption of active measures in this direction is sure to bring hope to the State.

Newton is a finished town of about six hundred inhabitants, has four churches, an excellent county newspaper (the Independer), a good high school, a prohibition law and an organized brass band. It is a remarkably quiet town, not even the ringing of an anvil is heard within its limits. The inhabitants seem to enjoy this quietude, and we course "lined in" and were happy with them.

As above stated, Newton is happy in the possession of a prohibitory liquor law, and consequently there is a very flourishing drug store in operation. The drug store drives the largest business in town.

Though the town is situated in the healthiest section of North Carolina, with all the natural advantages of pure mountain air, climate and good soil, and mineral waters, yet the people are sickly and patronize the druggist. The prevailing complaint is a chronic kidney affection, which in many cases is catching. We caught it precisely at 12 o'clock and straightway went for the druggist. We found seventeen men and a half grown boy ahead of us waiting for the medicine.
We all took it without sugar—snappens—scheedam snappens, and went away feeling better.

The Spring Term of Catawba

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The Brooklyn "newspaper" is having enthusiastic temperance meetings. The crusade fever is endeavoring to push its way into the large cities.

— Senator Cameron says the Centennial celebration does not propose to bleed the national treasury for more than $3,000,000. Only a small demand from a government so wealthy as ours.

— The Norfolk "Virginian" bemoans the fact that nobody in that section "will pay that poor, hard-working, saintly person, Dio Lewis, fifty dollars a night to preach temperance to them."

— The question of the renewal of the franking privilege has been most effectual in the House of Representatives. There is no chance of any repeal of the measure this session of Congress.

— The steamer Edgar Stewart is proving a sad thorn in the side of the Cuban authorities. She is closely watched at her wharf in Baltimore, and is not likely to leave there without her positive destiny being known.

— The Pawnee and Sioux Indians are to have a chance of tomahawking each other, it seems. An old feud, of sixty-odd years date, exists between these people, and they have no opportunity to hew each other to pieces.

— A contemporary gently reminds the fair sex that the capillary decoration worn upon the head in the shape of false hair comes principally from lunatic asylums, prisons and hospitals. A pleasant reminder, to say the least.

— The country differs from this country in this respect—they have King Cotton and here we have King Cotton. His subtlety, however, is said to have a Kingly air, notwithstanding he is muchly scoured by the small-pox.

— The Granite State of New Hampshire fires the first gun in the political contests of the present year. She is to be heard from this month, the Democrats, Prohibitionists and Republicans all having gubernatorial candidates in the field.

— It has been discovered that the "two million comma," over which so much fuss has been made in consequence of the duties refunded on fruit because of this comma, was not so grievous an evil after all. Only $71,000 were lost to the treasury.

— The barkeepers of Petersburg, Va., have been hoaxed to the extent of receiving anonymous communications warning them that if they did not close their houses before 10 o'clock on Monday next, women's prudential societies would be organized in front of their houses.

— Simmons, the new Butler Collector at Boston, brags of his former poverty and the humble employments of his youth. He was telling Senator Chandler that he was once a knife-cleaner in a hotel, when Chandler remarked: "Well, between your knives and Butler's spoons, you have done well."

— Did any world-wide sensation ever have as quick and as successful a death as was experienced in the case of the Virginians? No sooner had she found a watery bed than her very name was lost sight of, and the troubled waters which rolled between Spain and this country became quiet and serene.

— The Louisville "Leger" has been puzzled for a long time to know why the women of Massachusetts make more noise than their sisters in other States. Archbishop Whately once propounded a similar conundrum: Why do white sheep eat more than black ones? and answered it with the inevitable reply: Because there are more of them.

— The "tribune" says the Chaplain of the U. S. Senate addressed a stump speech to the country on Tuesday in the language of a "mighty God." His evident object was to convince the country that Congress was possessed of the whole ground we give him.

— A BILL has been introduced into the Ontario Parliament which, if passed, will give the women of that Province the rights that Massachusetts and Connecticut refuse to their Abby Smiths and Mrs. Fosters. It provides that in voting in municipal elections, and in elections creating debts, the basis of suffrage shall be real property. Each property-owner is to have one, two, or more votes, and women who are property-holders have the same electoral rights as the men.

WE publish in another column today a communication regarding the Presidency of the State University. The writer urges the name of Hon. KEMP P. BATTLE for this position, while he pays a handsome compliment to Gov. Z. B. VANCE, who has also been spoken of in this connection. The many friends of Mr. BATTLE in the State, and all who feel an interest in reviving the University, will read with pleasure the communication alluded to.

GOV. DAVIS, of Minnesota, has a more tender conscience than is usually to be found in the possession of leaders of the Republican party. In the appropriation bill which recently passed the Minnesota Legislature his salary was increased from $3,000 to $4,000. He requested that that part of the bill be reconsidered. He denounced the salary grant in the last campaign, and did not wish now to belie his own professions, especially as the people were unable to bear any general increase of salaries. The Senate reconsidered the bill and struck out the increase, in compliance with the Governor's suggestions.

THE U. S. House of Representatives is seriously considering the question of women's wrongs as found in the system of polygamy practiced in Utah. While there is an evident disposition to do something in the premises, the question is how, and over this opinions differ. Says the Washington Republican:

"The Territories Committee make one fell sweep, intended to exterminate every vestige of polygamy, while the Judiciary Committee propose to remodel the courts and thereby open the road to the legal correction of the systematic practice of immorality. It seems certain, however, that considerable opposition will be manifested to any Congressional interference with Utah or its people."

THE Western press do not altogether endorse the whisky crusade movement. The Chicago Tribune deals the following severe blow at the whole movement:

"The means adopted by certain West Side saloon-keepers to advertise their business in hiring women to pray and sing after the manner of the Ohio crusaders, is simply infamous. If intended to satirize the Anti-Rum movement it is an outrage; if simply to attract attention to their saloons it is a nuisance. In either case it should react in such a manner as rather to decrease than increase the receipts of the lower classes which resort to their spasmodic personal service in villages and considerate notoriety all over the country cannot be practically inaugurated in so large a city as Chicago; and we shall henceforth regard all announcements of prayer-meetings at saloons as bigos, and intended to secure gratuitous advertising. The women who lend themselves to this business, and thereby bring prayer into contempt, and pander to a vulgar appetite for sensation, ought not to be gratified with the notoriety they seek."

THE State Grange of Tennessee has proven itself exceedingly wise, and we can most heartily commend to the whole people of the South the suggestions contained in the following resolution adopted by that body:

Resolved, by the State Grange of Tennessee, That the Lecturer or Secretary of this Grange recommend to the Lecturers of the subordinate Granges to earnestly and urgently request the members of their respective Granges to leave the cotton crop from two-thirds (the old plan) to one-half, and increase the corn crop to one-half, and all other crops in proportion, which will enable the farmer to save his cotton in good time and in good order, thereby realizing a good and better price for his cotton; and with this increase of the corn crop raise his own stock of every kind, and do away with the necessity of buying all of his supplies, and have the pleasure and gratification of seeing fine, fat stock of his own raising, without any outlay to himself; and that the Lecturer or Secretary be requested to communicate with all the Granges in the Cotton belt, that the Lecturer or Secretary should be instructed to urge upon the women and men of our order to adopt and practice a rigid economy in dress and other matters about their homes.

— North Carolina Penal Law of Inspection—A Fatal Blow to Farmer's Credit."

Under the above caption the North Carolina Virginian, of the 1st inst., deals a heavy blow at the late law enacted by the Legislature of this State, intended to prevent fraud and imposition in the sale of fertilizers, but which will work with great injustice to the merchants and farmers of the State, and will utterly fail to accomplish the end sought by the friends of the measure. We are confident the bill was not understood by the Legislators, being passed at the latter part of the session, and we much regret that attention was not called to it in time to prevent its evil workings during the present year.

We do not see how any good can be accomplished by agitating the question at this time, but the following from the Virginian so clearly explains the whole ground we give place to it with pleasure:

"We had occasion lately to discuss the question of official inspection as applied to fertilizers and, considering it in the light of reason and experience, demonstrated the futility of the hope that protection to the farming community could be ensured by any system of inspections whatever, whether a rigorous chemical analysis should form part of it, or whether, as is commonly the case, it consisted only in the affixing to the packages of the article the inspector's certificate. Both reason and experience tell us that in the case of a complex article, such as guano, to be compiled under many varied conditions, the farmer is always exposed to risk, the risk of buying an article which, though good in itself, may not suit the soil or the crop it is used on, and the further risk of being imposed on by the seller, and receiving something of less value than he pays for. The former danger only the judgment of the farmer can guard against, the latter he can best avoid by dealing with responsible parties. These facts have come to us at last known in years ago, abolished after years of a costly and useless existence. The House Committee on Agriculture in our Assembly, before which some petition has been brought for the re-enactment of official inspection laws, has decided, it is believed, to take no action on the subject, but to respect the lessons of experience and the conclusions of reason.

It is therefore with the more regret that we see our neighbors and friends of North Carolina have not only disregarded these plain truths, but by their very legislation have aimed a blow at the very interest that of agriculture, to protect which was the chief desire. The North Carolina Legislature, just adjourned, enacted a law requiring all packages of fertilizers to be accompanied by an analysis and a schedule showing the composition of the article, and further allowing the buyer, on suit brought for the purchase money, at any time to plead in bar of the recovery of such debt any deficiency in the article of the ingredients specified in the analysis and so fixed to the parcel; moreover, to establish the fact of this deficiency the certificate of the analysis shall be presented to him for payment, which makes personally liable in damages "any manufacturer, agent or trader" who shall sell fertilizer which have not the "schedule and analysis" or which, having such, fail to come up to them when analyzed by the State Geologist.

This law completely puts an end to the sale of any commercial manure or accumulated guano on credit in the State of North Carolina. For the buyer who has no money to pay, the firm will be presented to him for payment, he alone being authorized to settle up the affairs of the article. out of the trade in North Carolina the best dealers in these manures. For no manufacturer who has spent years of time and thousands of money in making experiments, in perfecting machinery and in building up his trade, will consent to make public his formulas and processes, which are his exclusive property, disclosed to us, as guaranteed in his copyrighted trade mark, as much his as any other patented right can be. Again, every manufactured guano, every "commercial manure," is complex, and contains more or less of volatile ingredient: as for one thing water, for another free ammonia, and the list might be made a long one. These ingredients, by mere process of time, must change proportion and change at varying rate under varying circumstances; yet, according to this law, it must remain the same for any period of time and under all circumstances. Yet, again, the law makes the seller liable in damages to any party who may sustain damages by the purchase of such manure." In other words, to any party who may suspect that the manure did not "pay" him, and who, having had it in his possession six months or a year, may then show by an analysis of the State Geologist that the article has a little more or a little less water, ammonia, nitrogen, lime or any of the score of ingredients which were ascertained when months or years before, it came from the factory or was dug on the coast of Peru or gathered in an island of the Pacific or Atlantic Ocean.

The necessary result will be, not the protection of the farmer, but the cutting off of the source whence he can buy fertilizer for cash or credit.

Many other considerations might be brought forward, as unconstitutionality of such a law, the impossibility of executing it, its unfair discrimination against good fertilizers and in favor of worthless ones.

But the one point of view, the interest of the farmer, is enough for us to take, and it is much to be lamented that the North Carolina Assembly should have passed an act fraught with such mischief as this, of which the best that can be said is that it must become, and ought to become, a dead letter on the Statute Book.

Probably the fastest train in the world is the express train on the Great Western Railroad, which leaves London (Paddington Station) at 11:45 a. m. and arrives at Swindon Junction (78 miles) at 1:12 p. m., at an average rate of 53 miles per hour. Few of our American "lightning express" trains keep up a speed of thirty miles an hour.

Somebody in Mississippi claims to own Richmond, Mrs. Gaines owns New Orleans—and the Devil himself thought he had the world in a sling until the Ohio women taught him differently.

THE CAMPAIGN IN OHIO. A dispatch from Columbus, dated March the 4th says: "The women's crusade was continued this morning, their courage being increased previous to beginning their march by the news that the proprietor of the Zettler house, who declared he would do all he could in opposition to the movement, had, without being asked, pulled down his bar and stopped the sale of liquors."

A billiard room was first visited. The ladies were well received, and sang and prayed, but the proprietors refused to sign the pledge.

Two drinking places were visited, but the proprietors refused to sign the pledge. At one saloon a crowd made an attempt to drown the prayers and singing by cheering, but they were suppressed by the proprietors, who at first were very defiant, but afterwards insisted that the ladies should be treated with respect.

A saloon kept by an Italian was also visited, but he, scented the batte from afar, hurriedly shut up shop and refused to be seen. Prayers were offered for him.

It is understood that the liquor dealers held a meeting last night and resolved to treat the ladies courteously, but not admit them to their places.

A prominent preacher of the city forced himself into the procession this morning, thereby doing more harm than good.

At 3 o'clock three hundred and fifty ladies renewed the crusade against the liquor sellers. Fifty saloons were visited, but the proprietors refused to sign the pledge. The ladies prayed and sang at each place, kneeling on a frightfully muddy pavement.

Henry Ward Beecher regards the women's crusade against the saloon keepers as admirable in all its essential manifestations. In his sermon Sunday evening, he said it was worth study as a sociological phenomenon, and deserved admiration for the severity of the efforts to save men. Mistakes were made, but they ought to be criticised gently, and to be forgotten in the successes that were gained.
